

Oil production platform

"Beryl Platform A," a giant oil-production platform which will 200,000 tons and stand more than 50 stories high, is nearing completion at Stavanger, Norway. It will be towed later this year to Beryl Field off Shetland Islands in British sector of the North Sea. Platform will be topped by a two-acre deck and its owners say it will be able to handle production from more than 40 wells. It is owned by Mobil Oil Corp., Amerada-Hess Corp., Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., and British Gas Corp. (AP Wirephoto)

Rural Fire Board ponders Voss request for new pumper

By LENNY INGRASSIA

"We don't need a parade vehicle, just something to fight a fire with," Dixon Rural Fire Chief Edwin Voss told district board members this morning. Voss is seeking replacement of a 24-year-old truck which has developed serious mechanical problems, hampering its use.

Board members faced another problem in discussing the chief's request, that of financing the purchase of the pumper truck, estimated to cost nearly $50,000.

Still other technical problems encountered with specifications for the pumper truck forced a layover on the decision to purchase.

Members were unclear on what type of truck was needed, as Voss discussed fire fighting equipment with no chassis and another truck with a chassis.

George Beier suggested Voss get the required specifications from the Illinois Inspection Bureau "so we know where we are before we make a decision."

Beier later suggested looking into borrowing power of the district in the form of tax anticipation warrants to finance the purchase. Still other avenues being looked into were the purchase of a used truck or a modified military vehicle.

Voss was instructed to advertise for bids on the piece of equipment, both with and without a chassis and receive the bids in time for the March 10 meeting of the board.

Voss added that new federal laws, which go into effect in 1976 production of fire equipment, will require a computerized brake system adding $3,000 to the purchase price. The mandatory piece of equipment is designed to bring the truck out of a skid if the brakes become locked, Voss explained. "We can escape buying the system if we order the equipment before too long," Voss said.

In discussing trade-in possibilities of the old pumper, Beier suggested looking into renovations of the tanker for possible use in the Nachusa station. Estimated cost of repair on the truck was $4,000.

Discussing ambulance service, Voss requested the board approve the purchase of a cardiograph to aid rescue teams transferring cardiac patients to the hospital.

Voss said current methods of taking readings through a stethoscope are not reliable because of ambulance and road noise interfering with the readings. The chief said the cardiograph provides a visual readout of heart activity in the patient and would not be affected by outside noises.

Asked by Beier how serious a problem it was, Voss said four heart patients were transported to the hospital in the past week and one of them died. Purchase price of the machine is $295.

Earl Burket, acting president in the absence of Thomas Shaw, suggested the board hold off on a decision and investigate what other departments are using.

In other action, the board approved purchase of two chairs from Ames Furniture Co. for the Dixon station, at a cost of $175 each.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — President Ford said today members of Congress who contend the nation doesn't need his proposed million-barrel-a-day cut in imported oil are suggesting "a very high risk and reckless gamble."

On a visit to the nation's oil-producing territory, the President declared: "The longer we take to protect ourselves against embargoes, the more vulnerable our economy becomes to them." He said paying higher prices for foreign oil would increase joblessness.

In remarks prepared for an energy conference sponsored by the Houston Chamber of Commerce, Ford said:

"We cannot play games with our total economy in the hope that boasting about limited winnings that are not at all certain." Instead of betting on what foreign oil producers will do, he said, "we should put our money on what Americans can do and will do" if enough incentives are provided.

He also called on Congress to end federal regulation of prices on new natural gas for its state use. He said that "unless national gas policy is changed by congressional action, we will be forced in a short time with the hard choice of supplying homes or industries."

Ford came to Houston on the first stop on a two-day tour to Texas and Kansas to sell his energy-Economic program. He made a similar trip last week to Atlanta and plans others in the future.

Before leaving Washington, the President watched at a Cabinet Room ceremony as James T. Lynn was sworn in as director of the Office of Management and Budget. Lynn was Ford's second Cabinet-level appointee.

Lynn succeeds Roy Ash, who is resigning to return to his post as president of Litton Industries, Inc., Beverly Hills, Calif.

Lynn, 47, of Cleveland, Ohio, started in 1969 as general counsel for the Department of Commerce, became Commerce undersecretary and finally was appointed by former President Nixon as secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

Lynn goes from a $60,000 a year Cabinet post at HUD to his $42,500 post at OMB, which carries Cabinet rank.

Ford's first Texas appearance was at a Chamber of Commerce-sponsored energy conference in Houston.

The President will be host tonight at a working dinner for the governors of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

After a Houston breakfast

Tuesday with editors, publishers and broadcasters from the Southwest, Ford will fly to Topeka for a speech to the Kansas Legislature, a meeting with the governors of Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Missouri, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois, and an evening news conference.

Ford, wife Betty and daughter Susan spent the weekend at Camp David, Md. They flew back to the White House on Sunday night and Ford later drove to Andrews Air Force Base to give a personal sendoff to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger who left on another trip to the Middle East.

Congress may junk program within two weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is moving on a course that could result in junking President Ford's energy program within the next two weeks.

Democratic leaders say they are developing an alternative to the Ford program, which is based on conserving energy by making it more costly.

At least two dozen Democratic members of both houses have offered their own substitutes for the Ford plan, but it's unclear whether they will reach agreement on an alternative.

The House, which now is in the middle of a 10-day recess, already has passed by a wide margin a bill blocking for 90 days Ford's $3-a-barrel special tax on imported oil. The Senate Finance Committee, which is continuing hearings on the measure today, aims to approve the bill this week and send it to the full Senate for final action next week.

Republicans who support the Ford program — and many of them admit their support is based partly on the lack of any Democratic alternative — apparently have discarded plans to wage an all-out filibuster against the 90-day delay.

"We've got to have adequate debate (on the delay bill) without a filibuster," said Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, forecasting a debate lasting three or four days.

"We believe we can sustain a veto in the Senate," he added.

The imported-oil tax is the heart of Ford's program to reduce U.S. dependence on foreign energy. The project is aimed at cutting oil imports by two million barrels a day over the next three years.

A number of Democrats are expressing fear that such a move would worsen inflation by sharply raising fuel costs and the prices of other goods, and slow economic recovery by denying industries essential fuel.

Ford's $3-a-barrel tax on imported oil is designed as a stop-gap until Congress approves the higher permanent taxes he has proposed on oil and natural gas.

Democrats are basing their

Stop lights into operation

Operation of traffic signal lights installed at the intersection of North Court and North Galena Avenue was scheduled to begin today, Police Chief Earl Kelchner said.

The four-way signals will control the traffic flow on Galena, allowing heavy traffic from the Dixon State School access to the arterial street.

Installation of the signals follows numerous traffic accidents at the intersection during peak traffic periods. Traffic exiting the Parkway Drive-in will also be regulated by the signals.

Car into store window

A young Dixon girl took an unusual drive Saturday night, one that ended up with her family's station wagon inside a showroom window at Kreim's Furniture Store. Glenda S. Garrison, 16, 612 Willett Ave., who received her driver's license Friday, was attempting a right turn onto Galena Avenue from River Street and apparently lost control of the car during the turn. The auto jumped the curb on the west side of the street, slammed through a traffic-light pole and continued south on the sidewalk. Attempting to correct the car's path, police theorized Miss Garrison depressed the accelerator instead of the brake pedal, forcing the car to make a sharp left turn. The car crossed all four traffic lanes of Galena, including the center median strip, jumped the sidewalk on the east side of the street and slammed into the furniture-store window. Miss Garrison and a passenger, Patti Gilbert, 15, 601 Carroll Ave., were not injured; however, damage to the store was estimated at $7,000. Dixon Police cited Miss Garrison for improper lane usage. ## Probe of contract to train Arabian troops sought WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Henry M. Jackson and Hubert H. Humphrey have called for a congressional investigation of the Defense Department's contract to train Saudi Arabian troops to protect oil wells in the Persian Gulf.

Jackson, D-Wash., said he would ask Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, to conduct hearings.

Jackson, who last Thursday announced his candidacy for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination, said he was "completely baffled" by the contract.

"Only a short time ago the President and secretary of state indicated the option of U.S. military action might be considered under certain circumstances in the Middle East," he said in a telephone interview Sunday.

He said the contract to train Saudi troops was "confusing," since "we're the only ones who've raised an inference of a threat."

Humphrey, D-Minn., in calling for an investigation of the contract, said, "The possibility of having American forces training another country's troops in the Mideast is fraught with danger ...

"I think the armed services committees of the House and Senate should promptly look into it and see what it involves," Humphrey said in a telephone interview Sunday.

The Defense Department's $77 million contract with the Vinnell Corp. of Los Angeles was disclosed Sunday by The Associated Press.

Vinnell is hiring former U.S.

special forces soldiers and other war veterans to send to Saudi Arabia on a job usually handled by the U.S. government — training a foreign army to fire its weapons and fight wars.

There apparently is no shortage of experienced recruits for the 1,000-man force Vinnell is assembling to train Saudi Arabia's 26,000-man internal security force, which is responsible for protecting the rich Saudi oil fields and providing body guards for the Saudi Arabian royal family.

The president of Vinnell, John F. Hamill, told The AP he received 10 applications for every available job after he placed two modest advertisements in newspapers serving two U.S. military bases.

Intentionally withheld CIA information, says Helms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former CIA Director Richard M. Helms admits he intentionally failed to tell Senate committees all he knew about CIA work in Chile and withheld information about the Nixon administration's desire to have the Marxist government of Salvador Allende overthrown.

Helms' admission was made in secret testimony last month before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. A censored version of his statements was released Sunday.

Today, ousted CIA counterintelligence chief James J. Angleton appeared before the Rockefeller Commission, which is investigating domestic spying by the CIA.

Angleton, who was forced to resign from the CIA in December, has been named in published reports as the mastermind of a CIA spy operation in the United States.

However, a well-placed source indicated that Angleton has told the commission staff that he had no knowledge of the day-to-day workings of a special counterintelligence unit which CIA Director William E. Colby has acknowledged kept files on 10,000 American citizens.

Angleton's forced retirement after 31 years of intelligence work has been widely linked to allegations of domestic spying, although sources familiar with agency affairs have said Angleton's departure, along with three of his top aides, stemmed from a sharp policy dispute with Colby.

The eight-member Rockefeller Commission also heard testimony today from William E. Raborn Jr., who headed the CIA for 14 months in 1965 and 1966.

Helms appeared before the Foreign Relations Committee Jan. 22 to explain various apparent discrepancies in previously sworn statements regarding CIA operations abroad and at home.

"I felt obliged to keep some of this stuff, in other words, not volunteer a good deal of information," Helms said of his testimony in 1973 before the Foreign Relations panel and a subcommittee on multinational corporations.

Helms denied he ever knowingly lied to a congressional committee, but said, "If I have been guilty in the past of not having gone the whole way, all right."

Testifying two years ago on his nomination to be ambassador to Iran, Helms was asked if the CIA tried "to overthrow the government of Chile." Allende headed the government and died when the military staged a successful coup in 1973.

"No sir," Helms replied without elaboration.

"Did you have any money passed to the opponents of Allende?" Helms was asked.

"No sir," said Helms. "So the stories you were involved in that are wrong entirely?" Helms was asked.

"Yes, sir," Helms replied. He told the Foreign Relations panel last month he should have answered the 1973 questions "in a much more extensive way."

"I think I made one mistake in that testimony, maybe a serious mistake, but I should have probably asked either to go off the record or to have asked to discuss this matter in some other forum..." Helms said. He said disclosure of CIA operations against the Allende government could have further damaged relations between the United States and Chile.

"As far as the earlier statement is concerned, whether the agency tried to overthrow the government of Chile, I answered 'no.' I believe that is true ..." Helms said.

"I know that the Nixon administration wanted it overthrown but there was no way to do it that anybody knew of..." Helms said.

Stocks move ahead of business

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

When stocks ended a week with the largest volume in Wall Street's history (145.6 million shares), they gave a signal that has the whole world buzzing.

The only absolute certainty in Wall Street is the certainty of surprise—the unexpected. And "that week that was" qualified with a bang.

Everybody and his brother knows we've been gripped in a bear (declining) market. Prices, not opinions, are the payoff in the stock market and define bear or bull (advancing) markets. Prices would not have gone where they did if we were not in a bear market.

But every important rally in a bear market starts like a change in to a bull market, just as every important decline in a bull market starts like a potential bear market. And no man in Wall Street knows, or can know, the start of the turn at the time of the turn or how far the reverse trend will go.

So, where do stocks go from here?

On Dec. 23 this columnist wrote that, behind the scenes, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns sought a secret meeting with President Ford that turned into a session which burnt the midnight oil.

With the liquidity of banks, savings and loan associations, corporations and even some insurance companies profoundly threatened, Chairman Burns detailed the outlook. In fact, he used the word "chaos" in describing to President Ford what is at stake and must be avoided.

As reported December 23 in this space, the Federal Reserve quietly, oh so quietly, changed its monetary policy of retarding the growth of demand below the growth of supply to reduce inflationary pressures and the balance-of-international payments.

As for the stock market, it was at such a low level in December that it seemed to say we might as well give the country back to the Indians. Much potential disaster was already discounted. Most stocks were so low (and many remain so low) in relation to earnings, dividends and book value that even most bears lost interest in selling. December's low volume proved that.

In short, the Federal Reserve change came when the market was long overdue for a big rally.

In its rally, the stock market is obviously far, far ahead of business. All the most significant business indexes keep going down, down, down and certainly there seems to be no permanent turn in sight. This includes corporate profits as a whole. But an ironic rule rules the roost.

Prices usually fall long before earnings fall. They also climb again long, long before the end of the drop in corporate profits.

In the great 1960-61 recession, for example, stocks advanced briskly while corporate earnings still fell. They did so again in 1963-64. In 1966-67, stocks were at the bottom while profits were at their peak. Then stocks rose handsomely while profits fell drastically.

The same was true in the 1971 recession. The turnabout came at the low opening on Wednesday, May 27. It came, blessings be, like a sun-struck morning suddenly set to music—and again the ironic rule ruled the roost.

But Rome was not built in a day and neither are stock market turnabouts.

Over the long run, stock prices usually adjust fairly accurately to profits, yields and prospects—on a supply-and-demand basis. The great, blue-chip bellwether stocks are related to confidence—the sober confidence of investment money.

And the turnabout indication comes when these great bellwether stocks advance from such horrendous new lows as we saw in December and, on the next decline, do not appreciably go down. Then, when the next rally comes, these bellwether stocks lead the rally.

Thus the market may well be rising while 1975 earnings are still going down, down, down. But, obviously, the market is far, far ahead of business. Either business will catch up or the market will resume its bear trend and stocks will fall again in a way slightly smaller than the State of Texas.

Things Dixon Talked About

10 YEARS AGO

Rust, the cancer of all metal, was blamed today for causing a street light pole to topple into a sign of the Dixon Paint & Wallpaper Co. at First St. and Peoria Ave.

The Dixon portion of the Rock River, normally docile, today is running swiftly, causing minor flooding in low-lying areas of the city. There is a very high water level on Page Drive near the railroad bridge.

50 YEARS AGO
 The American Legion, Dixon

Post No. 12, announces that its big vaudeville show, to be held in the Dixon Theatre on Thursday, Feb. 19, will be the best thing ever attempted. They are striving hard to have the very best in the vaudeville line.

The Dixon Home Telephone Company will start work as soon as the frost is out of the ground, on the installation of another long section of cable, which will carry their lines in various parts of the city east of the Illinois Central tracks.

Voice of the people

To the Editor:

Honor degree of the VFW Pup Tent No. 17, Military Order of the Cooties, was instituted over 30 years ago.

Our main purpose is hospital work: 1. solicit blood for the blood bank, or anyone in need of blood.

2. hospital visitation to veterans hospital, mental hospital and also lend out hospital equipment such as wheelchairs, beds, etc.

3. donate books, magazines and clothing.

So far this year our hospital chairman, Walter Daer, reports we have donated over $2,322.82. We are one of the smaller Pup Tents in Illinois with 42 men. We have over 70 life members in the VFW and to receive a Perpetual Charter we have to have 15 life members and we have 21.

We have received our Perpetual Charter from our Supreme Commander.

All paid-up Cooties were entitled to this once-in-a-lifetime event. A dinner was served at 7 p.m. and presentation of our Perpetual Charter by Chief of Staff Robert Small was made following dinner.

I want to thank each and every Cootie who participated in any way to make this a success.

He's sour on sweets

The high cost of sugar could be a blessing in disguise to consumers' health, if not to their pocketbooks.

Nutritionally, we don't need sugar in our diets, says George Briggs, professor of nutrition at the University of California at Berkeley.

While sucrose accounts for 17 per cent of the total calories in the nation's food supply, these are "empty" calories that provide only energy since sugar itself contains no nutrients such as protein, fats, minerals or vitamins.

Moreover, too much sugar may be indirectly linked to cardiovascular diseases, obesity and malnutrition, and is directly related to tooth decay, says the professor.

Anyone who thinks that a sugarless day will keep the dentist away may be doomed to disappointment, however, judging by a report from another quarter.

William H. Bowen of the National Institute of Dental Research conducted extensive dietary experiments on monkeys, which are good models for dental research because they thrive on a human diet and harbor many of the same bacteria found in people.

His findings showed that bacteria deposits developed on teeth regardless of the absence of sucrose or simple sugars. In short, he says, substitutes for table sugar may be fine for weight control and prescribed sugarless diets, but they won't cut down on tooth decay.

Well, you picks your professor and you takes your chances.

Cambodia resists a death trap

PHNOM PENH (LENS)—A year ago the city of Phnom Penh was thought by many people to be on the point of capture by the Khmer Rouge insurgents who had amassed their forces around it in conventional military fashion and then tried to batter it into submission with artillery and rocket fire.

They failed, although they spread much terror, and when they finally withdrew it was with heavy losses.

Now they are at it again, and it is generally agreed that the threat they pose is stronger than ever before. This is because the main thrust of the Khmer Rouge offensive is now directed not against Cambodia's capital itself but against the convoys that bring about 80 per cent of the city's supplies up the Mekong River.

So far the strategy has paid off handsomely. The city is being slowly throttled. For a month no important convoy had been able to break the river blockade. Last weekend five ammunition barges and two small oil tankers managed to limp into Phnom Penh port, getting through only by the skin of their teeth and the guts of their crews. One of the barges got a direct hit even as it docked in what one would reasonably assume to be safe water.

Their Asian crews, who earn only about $120 a month for what is surely the most dangerous boat journey in the world, have let it be known they expect more money if they are to make another run. The barge companies have hired some highly paid foreign sailors—Mekong mercenaries—to try to ram the vital convoys through.

But the rocket-scarred collection of barges and tankers that made it at the weekend were too small to contribute much toward easing Phnom

Penh's acute supply crisis.

Figures vary wildly but one reliable assessment is that the city has enough rice to last it for another month, and enough fuel and ammunition to last three more weeks.

The American air force has drawn up an emergency plan to supply Phnom Penh by means of a huge airlift if the river stays cut. But this enterprise would be so expensive and so politically risky—it would once again focus the attention of a reluctant Congress in Washington on the American involvement in Indochina—that few regard it as more than a short-term solution.

Even with the stringent rationing the government has just introduced it would require a daily airlift of more than 50 Hercules transport planes to maintain the city. And Pochentong airport, where the planes must land, is under increasingly intense and accurate rocket fire.

All that said, survival is something Phnom Penh and its government are curiously good at, having consistently defied predictions of doom in the past. The obvious thing that has to be done if the predictions are to be proven false again is to reopen the Mekong River. The hard-pressed Cambodian army, backed by its small air force and flotilla of gunboats, has now set about the task. Small numbers of troops have been landed on key stretches of the river banks between the Vietnamese border, where the convoys start, and Phnom Penh. Some of these landings were successful, others were repulsed with heavy losses.

In Phnom Penh itself the misery has passed a new threshold. Its 11 hospitals, already packed, understaffed and under-equipped, are further strained by the arrival of 200 new wounded soldiers and civilians a day. They come in by a variety of transport—helicopters, ambulances, trucks, even bicycles. Frequent electricity cuts hamper surgery; it's not unusual to see Cambodian doctors operating under the dim headlamps of a jeep.

The government has ordered the military police to stop any more refugees entering the swollen center of the city. The prime minister, Long Boret, is understood to be planning some move to reduce corruption, still life and still the main source of criticism of the government.

The days and nights in Phnom Penh are loud with the explosive fury of the war, but people are used to it by now, and the puffs of smoke from the air strikes across the river have become a grotesque afternoon shows for the kids.

The army is more professional and better equipped than it has ever been, but it is exhausted after nearly five years of war. It is suffering very high casualties and reinforcements are being brought in from as far away as the Cambodian-Thai border. The conscription program introduced 15 months ago is overstrained and has proved inadequate; some units have been in the front line for nearly six months without a break. All this is reflected in the pressure the Khmer Rouge can now exert against provincial capitals with depleted garrisons.

But the Khmer Rouge are weary too, and they too have suffered heavy losses, particularly around Phnom Penh. They have proved they are strong enough to cut the Mekong River, but to win the war they have got to break the military stalemate and that remains as elusive as ever.

Accounting accountants

Despite recession and increasing unemployment, the demand for accounting graduates is on the rise. So reports the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Each spring, the national professional society issues findings of an annual survey of job opportunities for accounting graduates. Figures received so far from accounting firms estimating their 1975 demands for recruits show a rise of from 6 to 10 per cent.

Must be that they need more people to handle all the red-ink figures that are plaguing the economy.

"Dr. Crane," she protested, "my kiddies are in kindergarten and first grade."
"But I feel indignant at the way the school is pushing them into a premature interest in sex!"

"For example, the kindergarten and his classmates use modeling clay and are being taught to mold clay reproductions of their own sex organs!"

"And even in the first grade, the youngsters are shown slides depicting mating by various farm creatures."

"But it doesn't stop there, for they are also exposed to views of a man and woman having sexual relations. Imagine!"

"Dr. Crane, I now find that my son and daughter, with the usual imitative tendency of kiddies, are trying to play husband and wife!"

"I realize there's a time and a place for proper sex education, but should it begin as lurid sex pictures for kindergarten or first grade?"

When teachers inject human sexual pictures at such an early age, it really amounts to school pornography!

Nora is correct in saying there is a time and a place for such essential education. But this liberal modern trend to "throw the book" at toddlers is psychologically wrong.

Feb. 10, 17, 21, 1975.

For it produces an abnormal interest in ideas that should not be stressed at such an early age.

In the famous Binet Intelligence Test, we find that a normally bright child at the age of 4, can copy a square if you draw one and ask him to do likewise.

But at that age of 4, he can't make a diamond figure!

Try him again when he is 5, and he can copy the square, but still fails on the diamond.

Even when he is 6, test him again and he easily draws the square but can't reproduce the diamond.

Indeed, it isn't till he is 7 years of age that the normal child can copy the diamond. Why?

Because it requires 3 additional years of mental growth for him to perceive the acute and obtuse angles of the diamond in contrast to the 4 right angles of the square.

Likewise, a toddler will casually ask:

"Mommy, where did I come from?"

The simple reply is to say: "You came out of Mommy's tummy."

And that will suffice, for in the pre-kindergarten period, he hasn't enough mental age to ask question No. 2, which comes a few years later:

"How did I get out of your tummy?"

And he may be 9 or 10 years of age before it occurs to him to inquire:

"Mommy, how did I get into your tummy?"

So this excessive feeding of adult aspects of sex to grade schoolers is folly.

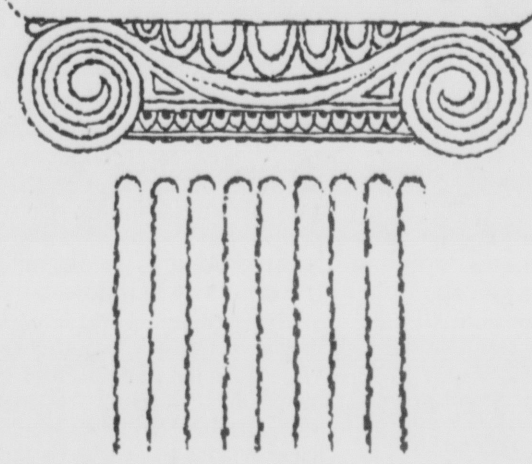

Answer their queries as they arise but don't fan salacious interest or stimulate imitative sexual behavior by pictures of adult marital relations!

And by Junior High School, it is wiser to separate the sexes for medical discussion of menstruation and other necessary instruction.

So send for my booklet "Sex Instruction From 2 to 20," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

Miss Elizabeth Green exchanges marriage vows with George Hodges

The First Christian Church, Disciples of Christ, was the setting for the Jan. 25 marriage of Miss Elizabeth Green, daughter of James P. Green and Mrs. Betty Green, to George Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hodges.

Lighted tapers in candelabra decorated the altar of the church for the double-ring wedding, which was performed by the Rev. Thomas Shepherd, pastor of the church, and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Mary Hodges, was the soloist.

For her wedding, the bride chose a white floor-length gown fashioned with an empire bodice featuring a high ruffled neckline and long sleeves ending in wide cuffs. A Juliet bonnet trimmed with pearls held her chapel-length illusion veil, and she carried a cascading bouquet of white gladioli and pink roses.

The bride's maid of honor, Miss Karen Yandell, Shaumburg, was attired in a full-length gown combining a skirt of emerald-green velvet and a long-sleeved bodice of beige lace, and her flowers were a cascade of pink carnations and roses.

Toby Hodges was his brother's best man, and wedding guests were ushered by William Gower.

The candlelight ceremony was followed by a reception and buffet hosted by the bridegroom's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stouffer, in their home. A tiered wedding cake, decorated with pink and green flowers, centered the buffet table, and assistants were Mrs. Thomas Green, Minneapolis, Minn., sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. William Sorlie, Champaign, and the bridegroom's sisters, Miss Patricia Hodges and Miss Mary Hodges.

The new Mrs. Hodges, a graduate of Dixon High School and the University of Illinois, Urbana, taught English for two-and-one-half years at Polo Junior High School prior to her marriage.

Mr. Hodges attended Western Illinois University, Macomb, following his graduation from Dixon High School, and is presently majoring in agricultural business at Illinois State University in Normal, where the newlyweds are residing at 300 Shelbourne Drive, Apt. 84.

FAMILY LIB By JOANNE and LEW KOCH

Coping with a closet Puritan

(Note: Today's column is written by Joanne.)

Married women can have men as friends. Carole Saline says so in the January issue of McCall's. In theory, I agree with her.

I have always enjoyed the company of men. This wouldn't be a problem, if I were working outside my home. I would converse freely with men at the office, go out to business lunches with them and Lew wouldn't mind a bit—mainly because he wouldn't be around to evaluate their intentions.

Working women are allowed to interact with male coworkers. Housewives and women who work at home are allowed to interact with the Boy Scout troop, the Fuller brush man twice a year, the 63-year-old laundry man who just happens to have bad breath, and an occasional meter reader.

(One always has to peer at the meter reader to make sure he's not a burglar or rapist disguised as a meter reader. The last meter reader I encountered wore a visible can of mace attached to his breast pocket. I guess he had been attacked by a felon disguised as a housewife.)

After about six months of such brief encounters, I look forward to being in the presence of other men with greater than usual enthusiasm. Thus, when we were invited to go with nine other families to a winter lodge for a weekend of tobogganing, skating, singing and conversation, I jumped at this coed opportunity. Each family brought their children, ranging in age from nine months to 10 years—21 children in all. This was hardly the setting for a secret tryst.

After the Friday night get together, Lew let me know that he didn't approve of the flirtatious lodge director of the three other men who had talked to me during the course of the evening.

In spite of my quick replies about the absurdity of his charges, he did succeed in making me feel guilty about conversing with these men. I had to admit that they were more attractive than the laundry man or the meter readers.

So on Saturday morning, I let Lew sleep late and made it a point to sit next to the lodge director's wife at breakfast. The lodge director came over and asked if I could make room for him. A few minutes later, Lew walked in.

The glance of Roger Chillingworth could not have been more withering. Who would have thought that this was taking place in the swinging seventies and not in the 17th Century Puritan world of Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter?"

Well, I'm safely back with the meter reader and just last Thursday a 300-pound plumber dropped in to clean our drain.

Lew came home yesterday after interviewing an attractive woman who is in the business of making people's fantasies come true—"The Fantasy Business" she calls it. When Lew returned from the two-hour interview with the Fantasy Lady, looking rather puffed up like a somewhat paunchy peacock, I joshingly inquired, "How is she at fulfilling fantasies?"

"Joanne," an indignant Lew replies, "don't you trust me?" McCall's and "Open Marriage" notwithstanding, what's sauce for the gander is not yet sauce for the goose, if the bird's name is Koch. Or to put it another way, a saucy goose makes for an angry gander.

Polly's Pointers

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Do tell me what I should do with all the junk mail that came at Christmas time? I would like to get my name off those mailing lists. Our postmaster said he could not help me. It is certainly inconvenient to mail it back to those who send it but the amount I get is disgusting.

P.B. DEAR P.B.—Throw it in the wastebasket. I have been advised that one is not required to return or pay for anything he has not ordered and does not use — POLLY.

DEAR READERS—Inadequate housing is one of today's many troublesome problems. The arrival of each new baby causes a home to become more cramped causing a desperate need for more space. With present high prices and high interest rates buying a larger house is out of the question more often than not. Even adding a room or rooms to the one presently owned costs a frightening sum so many are forced to continue living in crowded conditions. However, in many cases we may not be using our existing space as wisely as we could. It is so easy to get in a rut and continue to do or use something a certain way just because that is how it has always been done.

Before spring housecleaning time rolls around (and that will not be too long) look at your home a bit more objectively. Try viewing it as through the eyes of someone seeing it for the first time. Try to forget the furnishings in the various rooms and imagine them empty.

Is the living room really a living room or has it assumed the touch-me-not look of grandmother's parlor that was used only for weddings, funerals and important guests? Too many of today's living rooms are just as infrequently used and often simply because the television set is elsewhere. Let us all start living in our living rooms if that is seldom used space.

The same goes for separate dining rooms that are saved for company. Just because the dining room has always had the table in the center with chairs around it—ready for guests, and family meals are doubtless in the kitchen, family room or a breakfast room, this is more space not being used to its full potential.

Short on bedroom space? By putting the living room and dining room to general family use perhaps a den will be free space to provide a bedroom for that older child longing for more privacy in a room of his own. When there is a family room and the main day-to-day living is shifted convert it into a dormitory for the girls, or the boys, whichever you have in the largest number. Large rooms can have temporary dry wall partitions installed to provide each child with a spot to call his or her own. The so-called master bedroom is always the largest in the house. That does not mean that Mom and Dad cannot move to a smaller bedroom if their room could be made to house two or even three children.

Obvious labels for rooms should be disregarded in these changing times. Use the available space in a house any way it works best for the family living in it. Forget what the neighbors think and end up with the most liveable space and perhaps a home with more personality than any on the block. — POLLY.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite home-making idea. Pet Peeve, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of Dixon Evening Telegraph. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I want to rebut your statement to a woman who wrote and asked whether or not she should have an abortion. You stated your position on abortion, but added, "If abortion is against your religion, or if you feel in your heart that it is murder, I urge you NOT to do it. The guilt might cause you a lifetime of agony."

I am enclosing a magazine article entitled, "Abortion: No Lasting Emotional Scars." It deals with a book written by an obstetrician and a psychologist and states clearly that an abortion rarely damages a woman's emotional health. In fact, the opposite is true. It often brings improvement.

The article also cites facts and figures from other experts. They report "seventy per cent of the women said they were very happy about their abortions. Only three per cent said they were sad." These are extremely good odds no matter what the kooks who write to you say.

I know this letter will go into the wastebasket because you don't like to be challenged by people who have the facts and figures.—One Of The 70 Per Cent.

Dear One: Figures lie and liars figure. I don't believe that only three per cent are sad. I stand by my original statement: If abortion is against your religion, or if you feel you are killing a live child, do NOT risk a lifetime of guilt by choosing this solution to your "problem."

Dear Ann Landers: I must comment on the letter from "Bothered And Bewildered" because her daughter Nancy is identical to ours, only we had an added problem—drugs.

My husband and I went through hell trying to get that girl straightened out. Nothing worked. Finally, my sister, who lives 350 miles away, asked if she could take our daughter "for a while." My misgivings were the same as Nancy's parents', but out of sheer desperation, we said yes.

Within three months there was a tremendous change in that child—a complete turnaround of her behavior and attitude. We visited her last weekend and were amazed.

Please tell "Bothered" two things: (1) She hasn't lost a daughter. Nancy will be back. (2) The pressure removed from the parents is an absolute blessing. Separation gives both parents and child a completely different perspective. It turns out that my sister was a lot stronger than I thought.—L.A. Mother

Dear Mother: Thanks for your supportive letter. I got plenty of heat for suggesting that Nancy be housed "elsewhere." Some "experts" called it "rejection," others called it "abandonment."

Sometimes parents and children need a rest from each other and a change of scenery can work wonders.

Dear Ann Landers: This is for "Harem"—the mother of three daughters.

When I gave birth to my fourth girl baby, I went into a depression. Although my husband never said so, I felt sure he wanted a boy.

A friend sent a note to the hospital which read, "God must have known how much you loved little girls to send you four."

Whenever I wonder what life would have been like if we had had a son, I remember those words and feel warm all over.—Content In K.C.

Dear K.C.: How nice! There were four girls in our family and my mother always said she wished she had had four more. (Copyright 1975, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

La Leche League to show film

The local Dixon-Sterling area La Leche League will present a film night, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. The film will be shown in the Self-Help Enterprises building at 609 W. Third St., Sterling.

"A Story About Eric" is a 35-minute color and sound presentation showing techniques of Lamaza training, fairly long labor, good birth scenes, and nursing on the delivery table. The film also shows good support from both husband and doctor. A discussion and refreshments will follow.

Mrs. Walter Wildman, who is in charge of arrangements, invites all area parents and other interested persons to attend. For further information call Mrs. Wildman at 626-0160, Sterling, or Mrs. Robert Bloemker, Dixon, 284-6124. No admission fee will be charged.

La Leche League International is a not-for-profit, non-sectarian organization dedicated to "good mothering through breastfeeding." A medical advisory board of 35 eminent physicians works closely with the organization, acting as consultants for medical problems, reviewing all material for publication, and keeping the league informed on the latest developments in pertinent research.

An informal discussion group meets the second Wednesday of every month to discuss various aspects of breastfeeding. Further information about La Leche League can be obtained from Mrs. Bloemker.

Large plants have demands

By JANET TARA

When you feel you're ready for some more demanding indoor plants and can provide the right conditions, you might choose from asparagus ferns, spider plants, Swedish ivy, scheffleras, pickbacks or ivy. They require large amounts of bright indirect light and have different watering requirements.

Because of their more delicate natures, they are usually more expensive.

Growing time in a nursery is the biggest price factor for plants. If they only spend a couple of months there and are moved out quickly, they will be less expensive than plants that may have taken as long as two years to grow and train, e.g., five- to six-foot scheffleras and dracaenas. Don't think you can grow a large dracaena marginata from a six-inch miniature. It is very difficult to stimulate the warm, humid, ideal plant living conditions in your home that are created by a professional nursery in Florida.

Generally you can buy good, healthy plants up to six-inches for as little as $1 if they are fast-growing philodendrons or dracaenas. You will pay $5 to $10 for larger six-inch to one-foot full, luxurious ones. Remember, the bigger the plant the bigger the price and there are good reasons for it. Bargain plants are seldom a bargain.

Raw, medium and well-done play

By Oswald & James Jacoby Jim: "Does anyone ever ask you how he will know when he has become a good bridge player?"

Oswald: "Not often. Most players are too busy telling me about their partner's mistakes."

Jim: "One way to know is when other good players begin to think you are. This doesn't happen too often either. Here is a better test. You are a good player when you learn to make winning plays, that seem to go against normal good procedure."

Oswald: "I see you have a hand right here to illustrate this."

Jim: "The ordinary player grabs the first trick with the queen or jack of spades and leads with the king, leads a second spade and eventually our ordinary player winds up in the soup."

Oswald: "A slightly better player leads a club to dummy at trick two and then plays a diamond. Unless East hops up with the king the hand will come home."

Jim: "The really good player lets East hold the first trick. He wins the second one and attacks diamonds. It doesn't matter who wins the first diamond trick. There is no way for the defense to bring the spade suit home."

Breast Cancer is Curable

Breast Cancer Health Quiz

SEVENTH IN A SERIES:

Q: What Is the Connection Between Cysts And Breast Cancer?

ANSWER: Many women, with large lumps which develop rather quickly, become extremely worried. They are completely reassured when the masses are found to have fluid which can be quickly and simply removed with a needle.

This condition is a fairly common one, and calls for frequent observation. There is a difference of opinion among the experts as to whether these large cysts in fact represent a higher risk of cancer development.

The increased risk, if any, is certainly of a low order or it would be common knowledge to the authorities. Fortunately, these large cysts tend to disappear after the menopause and the woman involved breathes a deep sigh of relief.

It is important to realize that this condition of large cysts is not what is usually called "fibrocystic disease," a label too frequently used to describe the lumpy texture of most normal breasts. This term refers to a vague, poorly defined entity which is probably not at all related to the development of breast cancer. It should probably not be used by physicians nearly as often as it is, for it only serves to frighten many women whose breasts are completely normal.

People in the news

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas has not recovered the use of his left leg following a stroke and his doctors fear he may never be able to walk again, Time magazine says.

Douglas's intellect was not impaired and his vision, temporarily affected by the New Year's Eve stroke, is back to normal, Time said Sunday. The magazine said Douglas, who is 76, is working for a few hours each day on cases heard before his stroke but will not be back on the bench full time until at least March.

A spokesman at Walter Reed Army Hospital, where Douglas is listed in satisfactory condition, refused to comment on the Time report.

BOSTON (AP) — Lawyer William M. Kunstler says he was asked to help find Patricia Hearst and talk her into surrendering, but he refused.

Kunstler, who has been a defense lawyer for a number of radical clients, said his help was sought by Miss Hearst's mother during a 1½-hour meeting in the Essex Hotel in New York last fall.

Miss Hearst, daughter of San Francisco Examiner editor and president Randolph A. Hearst, was kidnapped by the Symbionese Liberation Army on Feb. 4, 1974, and later said she had joined the revolutionary group.

The lawyer said in a speech Sunday at Boston University that he told Mrs. Hearst during their New York meeting that she should resign from the board of regents of the University of California, denounce then U.S. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and "let Patty know that Patty's feelings were in some way shared by her mother."

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says the drive to isolate Communist Cuba from the Americas was a mistake and ineffective.

In an interview from Washington with the Mexican television network on Sunday, the Massachusetts Democrat called on the United States and Latin America to normalize relations with Fidel Castro's government.

Sen. Kennedy said isolation "was an error and a return to the cold war and confrontation with regimes opposing the United States and other democratic societies. Frankly, all of that has been ineffective. Whatever may have been the reasons and justifications at that moment have no more validity."

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) —

The Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., Yale University's activist chaplain, has announced he will resign the post he has held at Yale for the past 17 years.

He said he does not plan to retire from the Presbyterian ministry but said he would not be a chaplain at another school.

Food hikes outstrip stamps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail grocery costs had already climbed at least 3.8 per cent above new government food stamp allowances by the time the allowances became effective Jan. 1, an Agriculture Department study showed today.

An economy menu plan used by the department to set food stamp allocations for a needy family of four cost $159.90 in December, up from $157.20 in November. The stamp allocation, which had been $150 a month since last July 1, rose to $154 the first of the year.

Under the food stamp plan, a family buys a prescribed amount of stamps and then receives additional bonus coupons at federal cost to help boost its purchasing power at retail stores.

Meanwhile, as the nation's unemployment rate climbed to the highest level since 1941, more persons have turned to food stamps to help them through hard times. At least 17.1 million were getting stamps in December, 1.2 million more than received them in the preceding month.

According to department records, the December food stamp enrollment, which some authorities say may be conservative, was up nearly 35 per cent from 12.7 million persons getting them a year earlier.

The spurt in food stamp enrollment is expected to push federal spending to more than $4 billion in the current fiscal year which will end June 30.

Next year, Agriculture Department officials say the program could soar to more than $5 billion.

President Ford wanted to hold down spending by charging more for food stamps but Congress last week voted overwhelmingly to keep the current system. ABC-TV news reported Sunday night that Ford will not veto the congressional action but will let it become law without his signature.

Charged by troopers

Mark W. Swarbrick, 19, Rt. 4, was arrested Friday by State Police. Troopers charged the youth with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, illegal transportation of liquor, improper use of registration and improper turning.

Swarbrick was released on a notice to appear in court March 18. Further details of the charges were unavailable from state police.

Cars collide on bridge

A pickup truck and car were extensively damaged Saturday in a bridge accident on Paw Paw Road, one mile west of Ogee Road. Vehicles involved were driven by Adrian P. Rupert, 22, Watsonville, Calif., and Albert K. George, Earlville.

Investigating Lee County Sheriff's Deputies said the two vehicles were traveling in opposite directions approaching a bridge and the two collided at the crest of the bridge. Officers said neither motorist was able to see the other until just before impact, due to the high crest in the bridge. No injuries were reported and no tickets were issued.

Damage to George's 1971 Chevrolet pickup truck was estimated at $1,000 and to Rupert's 1967 Plymouth at $350.

No tickets in car crash

OREGON — An accident at 3:40 p.m. Sunday in Hillcrest was investigated by Ogle County Sheriff's Police.

A car driven by Robert J. Bowers, 23, Rochelle, was southbound on Erickson Road and a car operated by Patricia M. Udell, 22, Billings, Mont., was westbound on Hillcrest Avenue when the two vehicles collided at the intersection.

Damage to the Bowers vehicle was $550 and $150 damage was reported to the Udell car. There were no injuries and no tickets issued.

Ticketed after car hits building

Roger J. Kelly, 16, Rt. 3, escaped injury over the weekend when his car struck a building at 301 W. First St. Kelly told investigating Dixon Police he was traveling south on Peoria Avenue and was attempting a right turn into Commercial Alley when the car struck the rear of the Roaring 20s restaurant, knocking out a door and brickwork.

Kelly was cited for driving too fast for conditions.

Lincoln Day dinner is canceled

The Lee County Republican Women's Club Lincoln Day dinner scheduled for Tuesday night has been canceled, according to Nancy Ward, president of the club.

Mrs. Ward said lack of ticket sales prompted the cancellation. Cook County State's Atty. Bernard Carey was scheduled to be the featured speaker at the dinner.

Chaos found in state public aid office

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — An efficiency audit performed in May shows the central offices of the Illinois Department of Public Aid were in a state of chaos, says Auditor General Robert G. Cronson.

In a report, Cronson said the audit showed serious deficiencies in the DPA's management systems and in its use of personnel. A separate financial audit showed the department's accounting controls, records and procedures were inadequate, he said.

The auditor general's report,

WARREN E. WALDER Mayor

(SEAL) ATTEST: MARY K. COOK City Clerk

Feb. 10, 1975

dated Jan. 30, was made available to the Associated Press Sunday.

Cronson said the two audits provided evidence the DPA was placing priority on saving money rather than on reaching the goal established for it by state law "to establish such services as will encourage and assist applicants and recipients ... to develop their self reliance."

James L. Trainor, acting director of the DPA since August, couldn't be reached for comment on Cronson's report.

Responses from Trainor to criticisms raised in the two audits were included in the auditor general's report, but Cronson termed them inadequate and recommended that the DPA director be called to testify before the Legislative Audit Commission.

Cronson's report on the DPA was submitted to the commission and will be on its agenda at a future meeting yet to be scheduled.

The major findings in the auditor general's report included:

—The DPA was poorly organized. Its various sections and bureaus did not have definite goals or responsibilities, Cronson said. The various bureaus didn't communicate with each other, resulting in some duplication of effort and some failures to perform required jobs.

Cronson said Trainor advised him in a Nov. 19 letter that the DPA was reorganizing, which was expected to be completed in January.

—The DPA was doing little long-range planning but instead was reacting to each crisis as it occurred. Cronson said one reason for this was the fact that the DPA has had three directors since 1971.

"Management by crisis and short-term management cannot reasonably be expected to produce either efficient operations or operations responsive to the purpose of the department," Cronson said.

—The DPA was doing a poor job of handling personnel. Many supervisors had no way of measuring job performance, and many routine jobs were being done inefficiently by hand instead of by computer.

Cronson said Trainor told him DPA was developing guidelines and measurements for job performance and was trying to increase the use of computers.

—The DPA wasted money by having outside special consultants do unnecessary studies. A consultant designed a training manual for $100,000 that never was used because the DPA had designed its own manual in the meantime, Cronson said. The DPA had three studies on computer processing of medical bills performed at a cost of $613,000, then ignored their recommendations, he said.

Cronson said Trainor told him the DPA had hired a "contractual control coordinator" to prevent future occurrences.

—The DPA tried to prosecute welfare fraud cases without providing complete records and timely information.

Cronson said Trainor told him this problem would be eliminated in the DPA's current reorganization.

—The DPA's financial records were seriously inadequate. Cronson said the firm which performed the financial audit for the two years ending June 30, 1973, found the books in such bad shape it couldn't perform its normal auditing procedures.

Cronson said Trainor told him the DPA was working on this problem.

The auditor general said other reviews of the DPA by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and others also had disclosed serious problems in operation of the DPA.

"It seems to me that there has been more than adequate input from consultants. It is now time to stop making studies and to get on with implementation of recommendations," Cronson said.

Mother of quint says she feels great

CHICAGO (AP) — "I feel like I've been hit by a truck, but I feel great," an Illinois woman said after she gave birth to quintuplets.

Four of the five babies born Sunday to Cheryl Shaf, 27, from Morton Grove, Ill., were in good condition after their first day, and the fifth child was "holding his own," a hospital spokeswoman said.

Her husband Vance, 28, said in a telephone interview that he and his wife hadn't planned on such a large family.

"But I guess we don't have much choice now," he added. The Shafs also have a 3-year-old daughter Melissa.

"It was the most amazing thing I've ever seen," said Shaf, a partner in Shaf Home Builders of suburban Chicago. "I feel fantastic, but I just can't believe it. I wouldn't give this up for anything."

Two of the quintuplets were girls and named Vanessa Ashley and Tiffany Allison. But the boys still were named No. 1, No. 2, and No. 3, Sister Mary Paul, a hospital spokeswoman, said in a telephone interview.

One boy, No. 3, needed "support with oxygen and careful watching," she added.

The obstetrician who headed the one-hour delivery operation, Dr. Arian R. Oleck, said at a news conference that Mrs. Shaf used the fertility drug pergonal.

Her "infertility problem was solved very nicely," he said. At first, doctors predicted triplets, then quadruplets and X rays confirmed a week ago that Mrs. Shaf was carrying quintuplets, he said.

All five infants, who were delivered by caesarian section, were in incubators at the hospital and were expected to remain at the clinic for several months, officials said.

The infants weighed from two pounds and five ounces to three pounds and two ounces when born.

The quintuplets were the first in the Chicago area since five children were born to Lynn and James Baer on Jan. 5, 1973.

Duke wrestlers finish third in NCIC

By TIMOTHY LYON
Telegraph Sports Writer

Storming through the finals and semifinals with an unbelievable team effort, the Rock Falls Rockets sailed past Dixon and Sterling to take first place in the NCIC Wrestling Tournament held in Lancaster Gymnasium Saturday.

The Dukes, though well saturated in the later rounds with eight wrestlers, couldn't seem to pull through the tough matches. They finished third in the competition, with Bob Pinegar at 185 earning the only first place honors for Dixon.

Rock Falls gained eight championships and second-place Sterling placed one champion and four second-place finishes. Dixon also had five runners-ups in the competition.

The final team results: Rock Falls 104, Sterling 82½, Dixon 72, Rochelle 45½, Mendota 30, La Salle-Peru 24½, Princeton 19, Geneseo 11½, Streator 10½, and Ottawa 7.

Pinegar began his trip to first by downing Rochelle's John Babb 8-4 in the semifinals. Pinegar and Babb had a standoff in the opening period, the battle for a takedown unresolved. Babb started the second by putting Pinegar into a near fall. Pinegar escaped and was given a penalty point. He then took Babb down and got a predicament. In the third, Babb escaped, but Pinegar took him down a final time.

A strong finish, again, allowed Pinegar to take the final match against Steve Hershey of Ottawa, 4-2. The first period yielded no points to either wrestler again. Hershey scored first with a second-period reversal, but he gave Pinegar a penalty point in the process. Pinegar managed an escape at the end of the period. A reversal in the third broke the tie and gave Pinegar the win.

Dixon's 98 pounder, John Green, finished second. Green also began with a semifinal victory. He beat Rick Turley of Kewanee 7-1. The Duke had little trouble with his opponent, taking him down and placing him in a predicament. In the third period, Green put Turley in a near fall before he escaped.

Green was unable to score in his final contest, with Sterling's Doug Schaffer, and lost 5-0. Schaffer took Green down in the first and escaped and got another takedown. Green dropped into second place without having to wrestle back.

Ray Wilson was the runner-up at 112 for Dixon. He started the day with a 7-1 decision over Rochelle's Steve Kreiger. Wilson didn't score until the second period, when he reversed from the bottom. In the third, he gained a penalty point, predicament and takedown, and Kreiger escaped for his only point.

Jorge Cervantes of Rock Falls kept off Wilson's comeback and won the final 5-4. Wilson had a takedown in the first, but Cervantes reversed and got a penalty point. Each of the grapplers got a reversal in the final period.

Wilson had to go into overtime to beat Sterling's Mike O'Brien 3-2 to win second. O'Brien took Wilson down and he reversed in the first period. No further points were scored until the last overtime when Wilson escaped.

Mike James, Dixon's 138 pounder, needed overtime to defeat Mendota's Tony Williams in the semifinal. James went on to reach second. He got a takedown and predicament in the first period and Williams reversed. In the second, Williams got an escape, takedown, and predicament, while James reversed and escaped in the third period to tie. Williams got a takedown in the overtime, but James escaped twice and gained a predicament to win 11-9.

Rock Falls' Tom Licocci stopped James in the finals by beating him 4-2. Licocci had a first-period takedown and a second-period reversal to match up to James's escape in the first and third. James went down to second.

The Dukes' next runner-up, though, lost in the semifinals and had to wrestle back. Mike Allen, 167 for Dixon, was defeated 2-0 by Rochelle's Steve Papke. He reversed in the final period to win. Allen began the comeback with a 5-2 decision over Steve Stenzel of Geneseo. Allen scored with two takedowns and an escape, while Stenzel only had a reversal.

Allen utilized a last-period escape to slip by Chuck Musgrove of Sterling 1-0. This left Allen to face Randy Smith of Princeton to decide on second. The Duke had little trouble with Smith, beating him 5-1. Only allowing Smith an escape, Allen executed two takedowns and an escape.

The final runner-up for the Dukes was Ed Jones at heavyweight. He, also, won his semifinal match, but lost in the finals and went to second. Jones slipped by Mark Berge of Sterling 2-1 in the first contest. Jones matched an escape and penalty point to a single escape.

But in the finals, Pat McDonnell of Rock Falls had little trouble with Jones, beating him 7-3. McDonnell chalked up a takedown in each period and an escape in the second. Jones came back in the third with an escape and reversal.

Warren Gridley finished fourth for the Dukes at 105. He was beaten 10-3 in the semifinals by Streator's Kevin Bellis. Gridley won his first consolation match. He decided Brad McAdam of Rochelle 8-6. Then, Mark Metzler of Sterling handed Gridley a 2-0 loss, and the Duke finished fourth.

Dixon's 119 pounder, Jim Magnafici, didn't place in the standings. He wasn't allowed to wrestle back as Aaron Goy of Mendota, who beat him Friday, was in turn defeated in the semifinals.

Mike Fritts, at 126 for the Dukes, also didn't place because his previous victor, Dave Ericson of L-P, was downed in the semifinals.

At 132, Tom Cecchetti also took fourth for Dixon. He lost 4-2 to Rochelle's Louis Cote in the semifinals. In his first consolation match, Cecchetti easily handled Ron Elias of Streator, pinning him at 2:46. But he couldn't continue, as he was dropped 9-4 by Mark Klinefelter of L-P in an overtime match.

Dixon's Steve Lybarger was allowed to wrestle back, but he was defeated 6-4 in his first attempt by Scott Zulauf of Sterling, and thus didn't place at 145.

It was the same case for Dixon's 155 pounder, Rockford Derksen. He was beaten in his first wrestle-back attempt, 4-0, by Steve Opsal of L-P.

Rock Falls' eight champions were Jeff Fitts 105, Jorge Cervantes 112, Bryan Berogan 119, Tim Fiorini 126, Tom Licocci 138, Rory Fullmer 145, Dan Fiorini 155, and heavyweight Pat McDonnell.

Sterling's only champion was Doug Schaffer at 98. Rochelle had Steve Papke for the champion at 167, and Geneseo had the remaining champ, Tim Henny at 132.

Next week the Dukes will face much of the same competition as they travel to Sterling to compete in the District.

RAY WILSON of Dixon attempts to escape from Jorge Cervantes of Rock Falls. Cervantes won the championship contest 5-4 and became one of his team's eight champions in the NCIC wrestling tournament held at Lancaster Gymnasium on Saturday. Mark Ellingson dropped in six points to help Orangeville take a 13-4 first-quarter lead, but Mike Caldwell had three baskets in the second quarter as Ashton sliced four points off the margin. Orangeville outscored the Aces 23-18 in the second half for the victory.

Ashton had a 30-28 advantage on the boards. Laurin Enzinger pulled down 11 rebounds for the home team and led all scorers with 21 points. Joey Obert collected 11 and Ellingson 10.

Who else? Miller wins Hope 48-38

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Now, perhaps more than anyone ever has before, Johnny Miller has thrown down the challenge to Jack Nicklaus.

"Right now I might be No. 1," the quiet, soft-spoken but completely unabashed young man said after scoring his third victory in four starts this season.

This one came by a comfortable three strokes in the $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic, and put Miller ahead of last season's pace when he scored eight victories, acquired Player of the Year honors and collected a record $353,021 in prize winnings.

Nicklaus, the famed and feared Golden Bear who has dominated pro golf for the past decade, did not compete in this unique, five-day 90-hole grind that is spread over four desert courses.

"Jack has been No. 1 so long, people are wanting someone to challenge him," Miller said after posting a last round, four-under-par 68, for a 339 total, a distant 21-under-par.

"I think just because they want to see somebody else up there, they're beginning to say I'm No. 1," Miller said. "Right now I might be."

"But Jack has the ability to be better," said Miller who has been, quite possibly, the outstanding player in the game since his record triumph in the 1973 U.S. Open.

"He has the potential," Miller said. "He's stronger than I am and more experienced. But he's not playing up to his potential, and I am."

BULLETIN

The Dixon Girls Interscholastic basketball team will host Princeton today at 6:30 p.m. to make its varsity debut at home. The varsity game will follow the frosh-soph contest.

Mounders triumph

OREGON— Bruce Hongsermeier, limited to two points in the opening three quarters, fired in two baskets and three free throws in the final eight minutes to carry the Mt. Morris Mounders to a 59-55 Mid-Northern Conference victory over the Oregon Hawks, here, Saturday night.

The Mounders bolted to a 6-0 lead but Oregon rallied to outscore Mt. Morris 13-2 in the rest of the opening quarter. The Hawks led until the final quarter when Hongsermeier came through. The Mounders are now 11-1 in conference action and 18-1 overall. Oregon slips to 4-8 and 9-11, respectively. Mt. Morris hosts Forrester on Friday while Oregon entertains Winnebago.

Ron Alden paced Mt. Morris with 20 points based on six buckets and eight free throws.

Poor shooting hampers Amboy

BELOIT, Wis.— Gary Croegaert, Amboy head varsity basketball coach, commented, "Saturday night was the worst shooting night we've had probably since I've been here," as the Clippers hit only 26 per cent from the field and lost a 55-47 verdict to Beloit Catholic in a Shark Conference battle.

"It's hard to believe we're shooting 30 per cent for our last three games," Croegaert continued. "We were 18 of 67 Saturday but we got excellent shots and we weren't forcing them. We played excellent defense and Joe Bothe played a super game on the boards."

"Bothe got 20 rebounds to cost me a steak dinner but scoring is our problem. You just can't shoot 26 per cent from the floor at anyone's place and beat them. We're doing the job in other areas, but we just can't put the ball in the hole. The kids are trying—it's not a lack of effort—but we just can't score."

The defeat drops the Clippers' Shark record to 6-4 and

"Maybe I'm better right now, but he could be."

Nicklaus has played only twice this year. He tied Miller for sixth in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, the only time Miller has played and failed to win this year. Nicklaus was a distant 14th in the Hawaiian Open. Miller didn't play there. And Jack isn't playing in this week's San Diego Open.

He's sticking to his usual schedule, all aimed toward putting his game at a peak at the Masters in Augusta, Ga., the first week in April. That schedule calls for no more than two tournaments in a row and probably only three or four more appearances before the Masters.

Miller now has won 11 American tournaments in the last 14 months.

The $32,000 he collected from this tournament pushed his winnings for the year to $108,343. That compares with $100,943 at this stage a year ago — when he set a record — and he's planning on playing a little more this year.

Eagles clinch tie for Upstate title

Franklin Center bombs Durand

By MIKE CUNIFF
Telegraph Sports Editor

FRANKLIN GROVE — Whenever a Franklin Center player would dribble the ball to loosen up for a free throw, the Durand cheerleaders and fans would haughtily scream "bounce," but it was the Bulldogs who were bounced, here, Saturday night in an Upstate Illinois Conference basketball game.

Franklin Center's Eagles netted the opening 12 points of the game and utilized a tight pressure defense to steal the ball 19 times en route to a 89-59 laugher over the Bulldogs. The victory upped the Eagles' Upstate Illinois ledger to 8-1 and overall mark to 15-5.

A Share of Crown
The win was also worth a share of the conference title to Franklin Center as Ashton lost to Orangeville Saturday to drop three games back with a 6-4 record. The Eagles must win only one of their remaining three Upstate contests (versus Leaf River, Orangetown and Rockford Lutheran) to win the crown outright.

John Kirchhofer, a senior forward paced the Eagles with 28 points while junior guard Jeff Jahn accounted for 21 and nine different players put points on the board for Franklin Center. Eagle varsity coach Dennis Kessel made three substitutions in the opening quarter and reserves from both sides collected playing time.

The home team utilized a trap zone to thwart any scoring efforts of the Bulldogs for the initial four minutes as Durand did not launch its first field goal attempt until 3:51 had expired and failed to light the scoreboard until Bob Smith scored from underneath with 3:36 to go in the first quarter.

Lead of 12-0
By that time, it was 12-0 as Kirchhofer and Joe Burke had threaded two buckets each while Jahn and Jeff Heckman dumped in one apiece. Jahn made one steal and fed Kirchhofer for a lay-up. Delhotal scored for a lay-up. Burke picked off another bad pass, fired a pass to Jahn who returned the ball to Burke for another lay-up. Burke earlier was assisted on a bucket from underneath by Scott Delhotal. The margin grew to 22-6 at the end of the quarter with Kirchhofer getting six points while Jahn, Heckman, Delhotal and Burke had four each. Mike Hines tossed in two baskets to being the second stanza and bring Durand back with a dozen as the Eagles went 3:21 without a point.

Burke then got free on a fast-break lay-up as Jahn assisted on a behind-the-back pass. The maneuver seemed to spark Franklin Center and the lead zoomed up to 33-14 in the next two minutes as Jahn converted a three-point play. Delhotal stole and drove for a lay-up. Jahn sank a close shot and Burke picked off a pass to assist on a Kirchhofer driving lay-up.

39-18 Lead at Half
Baskets by Kirchhofer, Jahn and reserve Doug Hillison expanded the advantage to 39-18 at intermission. Jahn had 11 points and Kirchhofer 10 at half with each player pulling down five boards. The Eagles were 18 out of 35 from the field.

Durand took the second half tip and Ron Truesdale sank a 15-footer. After a Franklin Center turnover, Randy Rhymer made it 41-22 with a 20-footer to the left of the hoop. The Eagles then went on a 12-2 binge as Jahn assisted on three consecutive buckets by Heckman and Kirchhofer (two).

Jahn plunked in a basket from the key to make it 47-24. Burke pilfered a pass, hummed it up-court to Kirchhofer who in turn hit Heckman for a lay-up. Burke then converted a Kirchhofer miss for an offensive rebound bucket and the Eagles had a 51-24 advantage.

Kirchhofer Gets Three
Kirchhofer added three successive baskets later to help stem a Bulldog comeback that potted 23 points in the quarter. Franklin Center ended the rout with a 26-marker fourth stanza with Jahn threading eight points while Kirchhofer got six before being replaced with over three minutes to go.

Durand rallied to pull within 68-51 early in the quarter but the Eagles responded with 16 consecutive points to seal the victory. Steals were a key ingredient as five baskets came as the result of pilfered passes.

Delhotal started the explosion by swiping a pass and then completed a give-and-go with Jahn for a lay-up. Jahn then stole a pass for another bucket. Delhotal added a pair of steals and hit Jahn twice (once on a behind-the-back assist) for lay-ups.

Hayen Nets Five
Reserves mopped up as Hillison collected a pair of free throws. Doug Hayen entered to hoop two buckets and a charity toss and Jim Roop netted two free throws. Franklin Center ended with 37 buckets in 71 attempts while Durand was 24 of 59.

Delhotal had seven steals and four assists while Jahn had five and six, respectively. Burke picked off four steals. Rusty Klavenga did not score but placed the Eagles with seven boards in addition to a pair of assists. Kirchhofer finished with six rebounds and Jahn had five.

"I've been saying all along this is a much improved club," Dennis Kessel, Franklin Center varsity coach, stated. "Durand is the only club to beat us (in conference) and it was up there earlier in the season. You know, we lost four games early including two in the Christmas Tournament but it may have been a blessing in disguise."

Celtics put it all together for wins

By ALEX SACHARE

AP Sports Writer

Tempo, pace, intensity, pressure — it's the Boston Celtics at the top of their game.

The Celtics put it together in a weekend series with the New York Knicks, routing the New Yorkers 126-102 in Madison Square Garden Saturday and following that up with a 105-88 decision at Boston Garden Sunday which was more lopsided than the final score indicates.

"Our tempo has been fast, excruciatingly fast," said Celtics' Coach Tommy Heinsohn, whose defending National Basketball Association champions have won 13 of their past 14 games and 20 of 22. "We've been playing with a lot of intensity, and that has a lot to do with our success."

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, the Detroit Pistons nipped the Los Angeles Lakers 97-96, the Buffalo Braves edged the Seattle SuperSonics 99-93 in overtime, the Philadelphia 76ers beat the Chicago Bulls 109-97 and the Houston Rockets defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 102-92.

The return of center Dave Cowens from his early injuries has sparked Boston's surge.

Cowens scored 25 points, grabbed 20 rebounds, handed out six assists and blocked three shots against the Knicks Sunday.

Boston's pressure defense throttled New York's high-scoring backcourtmen, limiting Walt Frazier to nine points and Earl Monroe to five. The loss dropped the Knicks to the .500 mark for the first time since early in the season.

All of which prompted Knicks

Coach Red Holzman to observe, "We played two bad games in a row."

Pistons 97, Lakers 96
Burly Bob Lanier scored 31 points for Detroit, including what proved to be the winning basket with 51 seconds left. Los Angeles guard Gail Goodrich followed with a jumper to bring the Lakers within one.

Braves 99, Sonics 93, OT
Buffalo got 39 points from Bob McAdoo, but it was a free throw and jump shot by Randy Smith midway through the overtime which proved decisive. Smith's points gave the Braves a 93-91 lead, and the Sonics never caught up.

76ers 109, Bulls 97

Center LeRoy Ellis, whose previous season high was 16 points, poured in 27 and teammate Fred Carter matched that figure to lead Philadelphia past Chicago, which saw a five-game winning streak go by the boards.

Rockets 102, Blazers 92
Rudy Tomjanovich scored 20 points in the first half as Houston built a nine-point lead, and the Blazers were never able to draw even. Tomjanovich finished with 28 points and Calvin Murphy added 25.

Sidney Wicks led Portland with 20 points. Rookie Bill Walton started and scored 12 points.

12,000 on strike at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The huge McDonnell Douglas Corp plant in St. Louis was struck just minutes after midnight by 12,000 union workers. The strike eventually could halt further production of the Air Force's heralded F15 fighter aircraft.

Less than 72 hours after negotiation talks broke down, members of Machinists Union District 837 walked out in a dispute centering on wages and benefits.

In California, about 7,000 members of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, were expected to follow the St. Louis local's lead and strike several Southern California plants of McDonnell Douglas.

It was not immediately known whether union members at company plants in Florida, Oklahoma and Arkansas would also participate in the local's strike.

About 200 union members formed pickets at the company plant here, which is involved in the production of the Air Force's reliable F4 as well as the F15. Company officials said fighter jet production would be slowed and eventually stopped by a strike. The St. Louis plant normally produces 18 F4s and three F15s per month.

A union official in California said Sunday night that 11,000 workers at McDonnell Douglas'

Long Beach plant would not go out on strike. Clarence Gregory, president of the United Auto and Aerospace Workers Local 148, said they were expected to be at work today.

Gregory said he would meet today with UAW officials representing workers at company plants in Tulsa, Okla., and Arkansas to determine whether the UAW should strike alongside the IAM. Only about 150 IAM workers at the Long Beach plant are expected to be off work today, he said, adding that UAW workers have been instructed not to perform any duties of IAM strikers.

Negotiations broke off Friday when union negotiators unanimously rejected the company's latest offer. It would provide an average of $6.34 an hour in the third year of the proposed new contract in addition to changes in a cost-of-living clause and medical and hospitalization clauses.

St. Louis District 837 president Cosimo "Gus" Troia claimed the wage offer would be wiped out by deficiencies in the cost-of-living increase proposed by the company. District 837 members now average $5.82 per hour in wages.

A new lottery game with 16 chances to win every week plus a grand prize of $50,000 a year for life!

Here's how the Grand Slam works: starting Friday, Feb. 21, and for the following 11 weeks, we will draw a 3-digit number, a 4-digit number, a 5-digit number, and a 6-digit number.

Match any of the 3-digit numbers on your ticket with the 3-digit winning number drawn, for the drawing date indicated, and you win $40. Match any 4-digit number and win $100.

A 5-digit match-up is worth $500 or $1,000, depending on the amount shown opposite the winning number on your ticket. 6-digit numbers are worth anywhere from $5,000 to $100,000. And we haven't come to the big prize yet!

Whether or not your ticket is a winner in the weekly drawing, be sure you save the "Winner's Circle" stub every week. On May 9, one 5-digit number will be drawn to determine winners for the "Winner's Circle." Everyone matching that number on their "Winner's Circle" stub wins—but the amount they will win depends on what color racing silks their horse is wearing.

After the winning 5-digit number is drawn, the three racing silks will be drawn. Anyone matching the number and the first color we draw is qualified for a chance to win the top prize of $50,000 a year for life. Anyone matching the number and the second color we draw wins $500. Anyone matching the number and the third color we draw wins $250.

If you're a "Winner's Circle" finalist, you'll be invited to Arlington Park on June 14, where a live horse race will determine the selection of the top prize winner. At the June 14 race, all finalists' tickets in the "Winner's Circle" will be placed in the Lottery drawing equipment, and 10 names will be drawn. Each of those ten finalists will be assigned a random number which corresponds to a horse in the special Lottery race. The finalist holding the winning horse's number wins the life-time prize, our second-place winner will take home $50,000, and the third-place winner means $15,000 cash to that finalist. The seven other finalists in the race will be paid $2,500.

The Grand Prize, remember, is $50,000 a year for the rest of your life. No matter how long you live, your prize will be paid for at least 20 years, for a minimum award of $1,000,000 ($50,000 x 20 years). The eligible ticket buying age is still 18; if someone under 18 receives a Grand Slam ticket as a gift and wins the Grand Prize, his payments will not begin until age 18.

Play the regular 50 Lottery every week (new tickets on sale Every Tuesday for Thursday drawings) with its three big games, and then go all the way.

Play the Grand Slam, too (new tickets also on sale every Tuesday). Who knows what you might take home?

The Doctor Says: Muskie remains undecided about making presidential try in 1976

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm one of the 50 per cent of Americans who are overweight. I've been battling overweight for 10 years, ever since my hysterectomy. I'm 62 now, 5-foot-6 and weighed around 125 to 130 pounds until 10 years ago. That's when I had surgery and the trouble began.

I've been on the Weight Watchers plan but gained on their allotment of 1400 calories a day. Only by cutting the diet in half to 700 calories a day could I lose weight. At this level it took me 16 weeks to lose six pounds.

I've kept records of everything I eat for months and weighed it all on postage scales to calculate my calories. Doctors just brush aside my data and give me diet lists that cause me to gain weight, not lose it. Dieticians are just as bad. When I get a 1200 calorie diet with 80 grams of protein, I start gaining weight.

Other than this problem I am healthy and very active. My thyroid is on the low side but not abnormal or low enough to require a supplement. Just what can a person do? Have you any suggestions for us hungry, fat people?

DEAR READER — You are not alone. I must conclude from the rest of your letter that you are indeed an active person. The secret in many cases such as yours is not the diet or the daily activity. It is how much muscle, not fat, that you have. This is the one thing that most weight control plans have ignored, and it can be devastating.

The basic laws of energy mean that you must use the energy you consume, or it will be stored as fat. Most people think that means running it off or working it off. However, the body normally uses far more calories just sitting around than it does from daily activity. Your body has simply quit using as many calories at rest as it once did, and the usual reason is because of loss of muscle mass.

Those who want a diet program can write to me at P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019 and ask for the booklet on losing weight. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

Women tend to have a drop in the use of calories at rest after age 40, and the middle-age spread begins. Lots of light activity, including housework and walking, may not load the muscles enough to maintain their size. They begin to shrink and the body starts changing from muscle to fat. Soon you are in a vicious circle. The less muscle and the more fat you have the fatter you get, and the less energy you need at rest.

I approve of walking and similar endurance exercises, but in a case like yours, a good muscle building and maintenance program is needed. It doesn't take too much time each week, either.

Most people don't understand muscle building training. You don't need hernia-producing straining activity. Light weights, springs, modified isometric contractions and calisthenic exercises that use your body as a weight are all useful in this regard. Good examples here are the pushup and chinup. I think you need to find a good gym program, with someone to instruct you in these types of exercises, and give it a try. It is worth seeing what you can do for yourself. I do think, though, it should be a supervised program at the start to be sure you don't overdo anything. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie says he is in "a state of suspended animation" about a 1976 race for the presidency and is laying plans to run for re-election to the Senate next year while leaving open "the possibility that might change."

In an hour-long, often philosophical interview in his office, the lanky Maine Democrat said he plans to spend 1975 as "a full-time senator," looking ahead to the 1976 Senate race in Maine.

But he conceded the lure of the presidency remains after his 1972 bid, noting that "having been reasonably close to it once, there's some chemistry about the whole thing that keeps you drawn to it."

"I can think of all sorts of personal and political and other reasons why my life would be complete without it," the 60-year-old Senator said. "Life isn't going to begin and end by whether I become a candidate for president or get the nomination or become president. It simply isn't."

The rambling conversation made it clear that Muskie realizes that many Democrats look to him as a possible compromise candidate for 1976 and that, according to public opinion polls, he runs stronger against President Ford than any other Democratic possibility.

Those same polls, however, made Muskie the front-runner in the months before the 1972 presidential primaries, but his showing soon faded.

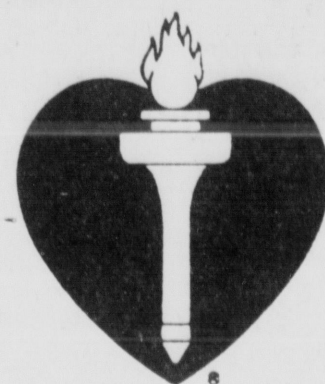

Muskie indicated he would be more inclined to an active 1976 candidacy than to play a waiting game in hopes of a convention deadlock.

"I find it hard to believe that at that point, anybody who has made no effort at all could come in and get it," he said, though he conceded that perhaps Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., could.

Because of what happened in 1972 — which Muskie calls "a little bit of a shock to my psyche" — he said, "When I'm asked to look into evidence that maybe Muskie is marketable again, I look at it with perhaps a more realistic eye than I might have before."
